WASHINGTON POTOVED For Release 2004/02/10 : CIA-RDP75-00149R000500240018-5

STAT

Busy Party Line:

AS GOP- ELEPHANTS trumpeted last week that Perle Mesta had picked the Nixon ticket, a group of Perle's friends who had picked tickets for the opening night on Tuesday at the National Thoater of Allen Drury's "Advise and Consent," turned up at her Spring Valley, home for a buffet supper following the show.

in spite of Perle's switch to the Republican samp, at lot of guests showed up wearing Kannedy sentiments on their blacks tie sleeves. Most sought-after guest, however, was not a political figure. It was Allen Drury, himself, poving that the pen sometimes is stronger than the peroration.

Frederick Lee (left) chats with GIA Chief and Mrs. Allen Dulles